Dear Friends of Long Island Crisis Center,

1971 was a year of firsts. Walt Disney World opened in Florida, Starbucks was founded in Seattle, the first email was sent, and Long Island Crisis Center (LICC) began providing programs and services to support and empower Long Islanders at critical times in their lives.

Starting as a single hotline for college students on the campus of Adelphi University, LICC has grown into a cadre of programs and services, using evidence-based practices to meet the ever-changing needs of the community.

The past 18 months has been one of the most challenging times in LICC history. The pandemic has left Long Islanders of all ages feeling anxious, overwhelmed and lost. But thanks to LICC’s skilled and dedicated volunteer counselors, 24/7 support has been available to those reaching out for help. The Crisis Center has been and continues to adapt services as COVID-19 restrictions evolve:

- Pride for Youth (PFY) is running their supportive groups outdoors on the grounds of the crisis center and counseling services are being provided remotely.
- LICC’s Community Education Program is providing workshops both virtually and in-person.
- The H-Line staff answer New York State’s HIV/Hepatitis C Hotline, providing support and information to callers – especially those concerned about how COVID-19 affects them.

The work LICC does is made possible by your support, your philanthropy and your belief that by working together we can have a positive impact on the lives of those in crisis. We look forward to providing our life-saving services for another 50 years, at least!

Thank you for being our life-saving partners.
